

Proximity effect is when a directional microphone's frequency response changes based on how near or how far the sound source is from the transducer. It occurs due to the design of the housing within the microphone

From:

<http://www.nccproduction.com/wiki/> - NCC Production

Permanent link:

http://www.nccproduction.com/wiki/proximity_effect?rev=1489516266

Last update: 2017/03/14 14:31

